Bridge to Open Despite Unfinished Link Parley Expected to Improve Relations

Problems Discussed At Panama Study Commission Proposed by Ike

Panama, July 24 (AP)—Establishment of closer personal relationships for an approach to western hemisphere problems was seen today as a major result of the Panama meeting of American presidents.

President Eisenhower left last night for Washington after a busy extra day of conferences with 11 presidents of presidents-elect of American republics. He met earlier with the other chief executives here for sessions commemorating the beginning of Pan-American relations 130 years ago.

STRESSED by Eisenhower in his conference proposal was improvement of "human welfare" in the American republics.

One U. S. source said Eisenhower's plan envisaged a cooperative partnership arrangement to meet hemisphere problems. The United States now is working with Latin American nations on a bilateral basis.

The source said Eisenhower's call for a commission to study economic, financial, social and technical problems of the Americas was in line with his partnership plan.

DIPLOMATIC quarters said the other heads of state had indicated informally their support for establishment of such a commission. Eisenhower said he would appoint his brother, Milton, to the body. A U. S. source said the commission probably would be formed within four or five weeks.

Although the group would have power only to make suggestions, the American source interpreted it as a step toward a partnership arrangement.

Eisenhower said one goal of the commission could be the application of atomic energy to industry and to fight disease.

WITH ALL NATIONS working together, the U. S. source said, the new plan should not require any large increase in U. S. expenditures although a slight boost is not ruled out.

The general feeling among delegates to the meetings here was that the major accomplishment was establishing close, friendly contacts between government leaders.

"If with the Panama conference we have initiated an era of personal contact among heads of state then it has been more than just a success," said President Ricardo Arias of Panama, the host.

Driver Fined $20

John Timbrouck, 39, of 7 Canal street, who was arrested in June on a reckless driving charge, pleaded guilty to a lesser charge in City Court today and was fined $20. He pleaded to a charge of driving at a "dangerous speed."

Farm Income in Ulster Is Reported as $17,265,000

New York, July 24 (Special)—Although faced with the adverse conditions that have been disturbing agriculture in general, farmers in Ulster county ended up the past year relatively strong. They had more to show for their labors than did farmers in most sections of the United States.

Such is the evidence contained in a study of farm incomes throughout the country, presented by Standard Rate and Data Service in its current issue.

Ulster county, it shows, had a gross farm income in the year of $17,265,000.

Related to the local farm population, placed at 11,800 as of the beginning of 1956, this income amounted to $1,465 for each man, woman and child living on the land.

It was a greater return than was realized in most parts of the United States, where the average income per farm resident was $1,420. In the Middle Atlantic States it was $1,370.

The figures on income, explains SRDS, include cash receipts from farm marketing together with government payments and the value of items grown and consumed on the farm.

Nixon Still Seen Choice Of President

Washington, July 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower flew in from Panama today with a warm greeting for Vice President Nixon and the briefest of handshakes for Harold Stassen, his disarmament aide who announced a move last night to push Nixon off the Republican ticket.

Even before this tableau at the airport, Nixon's renomination had appeared to be nearly cemented.

Nixon was the first to greet Eisenhower as the smiling President stepped down from his private plane, Columbine III, at National Airport at 8 a. m. (EDT).

Twenty feet down a receiving line which included diplomats, Republican Congress members and government officials, Stassen was waiting with a broad smile on his face.

Eisenhower shook hands with everybody and Stassen remarked as he put out his hand, "Good morning. Congratulations on a great job down there."

Stassen had told a news conference yesterday that "in loyal-

Milk Order Endorsed In Spite of Pickets

Utica, N. Y., July 24 (AP)—While 50 milk pail-toting members of a dairy farmers group picketed, a West Winfield director of the Dairymen's League endorsed a proposed New York milk order extension that would add 16 upstate counties to the Metropolitan New York milk marketing area.

Milburn Huntley was the first witness at a two-day session here of a federal-state milk hearing which has been on the road in the New York milkshed.

MEMBERS of the Tri-State Master Dairy Farmers Guild, headquartered in Newton, N. J., but claiming members in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, picketed outside the Hotel Utica room where the hearing was staged.

Previously, members of the organization led by the Rev. John W. Dorney, a Protestant minister, picketed similar hearings in Newark, N. J., and Poughkeepsie.

The Rev. Mr. Dorney said he believes every farmer should be paid a flat $6 per hundredweight for all milk produced. Farmers now get a blend, or average price, running sometimes two dollars below that figure.

As Huntley presented his arguments, the pickets paraded with signs calling for the $6 price.

HUNTLEY GAVE seven reasons in favor of extension of the metropolitan milk order. They were:

1. All the production in the milkshed of board of health ap-

FOR HERTER AS VP—Harold Stassen, White House special assistant on disarmament, announces in Washington July 23 that he will support Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts for the Republican vice presidential nomination. Stassen said "an Eisenhower-Herter ticket will run at least six per cent stronger than an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket." 5 Suffer Burns Fighting Fire

Five persons reportedly suffered burns about noon today when the gasoline tank of a farm tractor exploded on Feather Farms, Lucas turnpike, Kyser.

Four of the men were members of the High Falls Volunteer Fire Company it was reported. They were listed as Robert and Jesse Williams, James Feth and Tiny Ruffner.

The fifth man, Clifford Sheely, was said to be employed by Feather Farms, operated by Clarence Hansen.

Extent of injuries was not available at press time.

Robert Williams was reportedly taken to Benedictine Hospital, Sheely and Feth to Kingston Hospital, Ruffner and Jesse Williams were treated by Dr. Anthony Tocco of High Falls, who described their condition as fair.

The Freeman learned that the fire company responded to a call reporting a farm tractor on fire. While fighting the blaze the gas tank blew up.

Opponents, however, apparently will be in a position to thwart him. And even if he is able to offer the resolution, Senate rules governing the handling of such motions make any chance of action on it extremely remote.

Sens. Lehman (D-N.Y.) and Douglas (D-Ill.) are working with Hennings in an effort to bring the bill up in the Senate before Congress adjourns.

The House passed the civil rights bill yesterday, 279-126, after southern opponents had delayed action on it for a week by a dogged series of parliamentary maneuvers.

Republicans voted 168-24 for the bill, while the Democrats were nearly evenly divided—111 for passage and 102 against.

The bill was sped to the Senate and Sen. Hill (D-Ala.), who was presiding, announced that without objection it would be referred to the judiciary committee. That committee has been conducting protracted civil rights hearings under the chairmanship of Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.), who opposes such legislation.

Local Television Station To Go Off Air Tomorrow

WKNY-TV, Channel 66, will "temporarily suspend" television broadcasting operations on July 25, according to an announcement today by Joseph K. Close, president of WKNY-TV Corporation.

WKNY-TV started commercial operations on May 31, 1954. As an affiliate of the CBS, NBC and ABC Networks, it presently carries more than 34 hours of network programs a week. WKNY-TV normally starts telecasting at 5 p. m. on weekdays and earlier on Saturday and Sunday.

IN A STATEMENT outlining the reasons behind the suspension of operations, Mr. Close said:

"Like many other stations, WKNY-TV has been handicapped because it is a UHF rather than a VHF station. National advertisers have been reluctant to add UHF stations, particularly in smaller markets, to their national advertising schedules. The three networks have tried to improve this situation by working out new plans to make more good programs available to stations like WKNY-TV. These plans have been helpful in strengthening our program schedule. To date, however, we have not been successful in selling sufficient announcements around these programs to national and local advertisers.

"WE ARE EXTREMELY pleased with the rate of conversion to Channel 66 in Kingston and the surrounding area. The total number of sets now equipped to receive Kingston is somewhere in the neighborhood of 40,000. Conversion and set sales continue at a high level. Despite this, we have not been able to make time sales in sufficient volume to cover our operating costs." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Steel Strike May Slow $302 Million Projects

Albany, N. Y., July 24 (AP)—A special state committee says state construction projects valued at 302 million dollars will be slowed or halted by the nationwide steel strike.

The temporary committee of the impact of the steel strike said if the strike continued to Monday work on 75 million dollars in highway construction and 40 million in public buildings would stop.

Alert Problems Being Solved as Test Continues

Washington, July 24 (AP)—Many desperate problems created by last Friday's mock bombing of the United States were reported taking "manageable form" today as civil defense "Operation Alert" continued.

The emergency press headquarters at a secret location more than 100 miles from Washington closed down yesterday after 126 formal announcements in four days.

Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming Jr. said the great majority of the 10,000 government officials and employees evacuated from Washington would remain at their more than 30 relocation sites until the drill ends late today.

Farmers Will Learn Methods Of Surveys at Paltz July 25

July 24—Farmers from Columbia, Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan, Ulster, and Westchester counties will gather in New Paltz Wednesday to learn how to conduct opinion surveys.

Ulster county farmers scheduled to attend the meeting in the fire hall are John C. Quimby, Marlborough; Charles F. Relyea, West Hurley; William Minard Jr., Clintondale; John Andola, Highland.

After they have learned how surveys are made, these farmers will return home to quiz small groups of farmer-neighbors on approximately 50 current issues. The survey is a part of the New York Farm Bureau's resolution process, and the farmers are all members of policy development committees of their Farm Bureau.

The survey will include everything from school taxes and property assessments to federal support programs.

This process is a new step for the farm organization which separated from the State Extension Service last January. Other state Farm Bureaus have used this process for years.

Typical of the 50 questions which the county committee may use to be answered "yes" or "no" are:

Should state reimburse car owners for damage caused by deer on highways?

Should the present trespassing law requiring posting be changed to allow the same protection without posting?

Should there be a greater competition among milk dealers?

Typical questions on a national level include:

Should government support farm prices at high levels, even if it means production or marketing controls?

Should Social Security benefits be further liberalized even with high social security tax rates?

Should public schools look to federal aid to help in their school finance, even with increased taxes?

Following the opinion survey, the county committee will suggest proposed resolutions for their county annual meeting. All Council members said Quin was fired four weeks ago. He later asked the council to reconsider its action.

Council members said Quin was dismissed because, among other things, his views of gov-

Senate Not For Slash in Foreign Aid

Washington, July 24 (AP)—The Senate rejected today an attempt to slash $126,600,000 in economic assistance money from the $4,110,920,000 foreign aid appropriations bill.

It defeated a proposal by Sen. Ellender (D-La.) for a 10 per cent cut in most of President Eisenhower's itemized requests for defense supports and development assistance abroad.

THE VOTE was a major victory for the administration.

But Senate Democratic leader Johnson (Texas) predicted later adoption of an administration-opposed ban on shipment of jet fighter planes and all new arms to Yugoslavia.

The administration asks that the Senate leave the question of further shipments to Marshal Tito to the President's discretion.

THE BAN is proposed by Republican leader Knowland (Calif.) and Sen. Bridges (N.H.), chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee.

They turned down an administration delegation which paid separate calls on them late yesterday to urge that they change their stand.

Other supporters of the amendment said the debate will disclose the shipment of "several" jet fighters to Yugoslav Marshal Tito since the controversy started several weeks ago.

Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), and Major Gen. Wilton B. Persons and Jack Martin, aides to President Eisenhower, made the fervent but un-

The proposed drive-in branch bank for Stone Ridge should be in operation in six months or "as soon thereafter as possible," it was reported today by officials of the Kerhonkson National Bank.

The branch was approved recently by the comptroller of currency, Washington, D. C.

The board of directors plans to erect a building to house the branch on a corner lot on Route 209 between the Colonial food lockers and the Elmdorf service station.

Ulster Fair August 15-16 Bigger Event at Forsyth

The Ulster County Fair, which will be held Wednesday and Thursday, August 15 and 16, will overflow Forsyth Park this year and two of the large exhibition tents will be in the Dietz Memorial Stadium, adjacent to the park.

Quin took office here at the end of last year and was dismissed six months later. He was formerly city manager of Elmira, N. Y.

Available to exhibitors in the numerous departments will be available premiums totaling $11,362.25, Albert Kurdt, secretary, announced.

Again this year the 4-H Club exhibits are expected to be outstanding. With from 350 to 400 exhibits shown by members of

November Goal Set On Traffic

Opening of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, based on the present work schedule, now appears definitely due for "some-time in November," but a strip of road connecting routes 9W and 32 will not be finished this year, it was learned today.

A spokesman for the New York State Bridge Authority said the authority has assurance from Dr. D. B. Steinman, designer of the bridge, that it will be completed in November, but even an approximate date in the month cannot be set at this time.

BIDS ARE DUE to be opened Thursday for paving of the approach roads, but the advertising for bids on the 9W-32 strip was delayed because of a legal technicality involving a strip of land needed for the right-of-way.

A question of state or private ownership was involved, and a recent court decision held that it is privately owned and the authority can now proceed with details pertinent to obtaining bids on the project.

IT IS NOW possible that a contract for this work will be let in the fall, but the work could not be completed, "if the bridge is opened late this year," the spokesman said.

Paving of the west approach, meanwhile, is due to extend approximately 1,600 feet west of the bridge toward Route 32, and this will mean that 1,900 feet of dirt extending into Route 32 will have to be covered temporarily with blacktop pending start of the 9W-32 project.

The bridge authority recently authorized the state superintendent of public works to act as its agent to obtain bids for the temporary blacktop strip, which, it is estimated, will cost approximately $14,000.

THE BLACKTOP will be ripped up and replaced with concrete in conjunction with the 9W-32 project, when that gets under way, probably as early as possible next year.

"We are moving along as fast as we possibly can," the authority's spokesman said. The state public works department has been authorized to prepare plans for the important connecting strip.

Contracts or a contract should be let soon after the bidding Thursday on the approach roads, and it is expected that this work will move along rapidly. Work on the short strip of blacktop is also expected to get under way soon, and this will be a comparatively short project.

TRUSSWORK on the span is extending toward center on both sides of the river, and is expected to make substantial progress before the end of summer.

The authority, now also faced

Central Hudson Manager Heads Industry Division

Arthur W. Buddenhagen, resident manager for the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, will be chairman of the Industry Division for the third annual Kingston Area Community Chest fund campaign this fall, it was announced today by Paul F. Steinkuller, general campaign chairman.

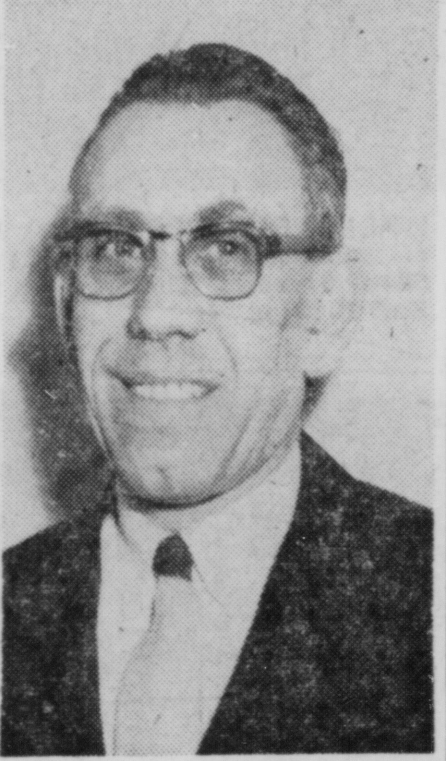

The Industry Division will seek corporate gifts from the area's manufacturing concerns and personal pledges from employees and executives for the support of the eight local agencies joining in the Chest campaign.

Mr. Buddenhagen joined Central Hudson in 1927 in the sales department, later transferring to the lighting department. He was public contact supervisor here prior to being appointed resident manager several years ago.

sistant to the general chairman.

Last year, with Mr. Steinkuller and Mr. Haulenbeek as co-chairmen, the Industry Division accounted for nearly $35,000 of the total campaign pledges of $73,000. More than 2,225 employees and executives participated in payroll deduction plans offered by 14 of the area's largest concerns.

Phone-TV Relay Tower Going Up Four Miles North of City

A 165-foot radio relay tower, part of a network of long distance telephone and television express routes, is being constructed on Halihan Hill, four miles north of Kingston, Robert J. Dalton, New York Telephone Company manager announced today.

The tower is one of 12 in a chain running north from White Plains to the western part of the state at Farnham, 20 miles southwest of Buffalo, Mr. Dalton said. Intersecting the New York state route at Halihan Hill is a north-south express route running from Portland, Me. to Richmond, Va.

Present plans call for eight "horn-reflector" antennas to be mounted on the tower platform.

Diner Employee Is Stricken at Work

Robert Johnstone, 55, of 15 Green street, an employee of the Colonial Diner, Broadway near Liberty street, died suddenly early today, the apparent victim of a coronary condition.

Police were notified at 5:25 a. m., that an ambulance was needed at the diner. Officers Gerald Every and Charles McCullough were also dispatched there, and when they reported that Johnstone had apparently died, Coroner Francis J. McCordie was notified.

The coroner reported that Johnstone had been under the care of a doctor for some time. He had been employed at the diner for about two years, he said.

A sister, Mrs. Joseph Ziff, of Miami, Fla., survives. He was a member of St. James Methodist Church.

Funeral arrangements will be by the Francis J. McCordie Funeral Home, 99 Henry street, and will be announced.

Two Are Injured In Local Mishaps

A man was injured in a traffic mishap near 418 Hasbrouck avenue last night and a motorcycle rider was hurt in another at Broadway and Field Court yesterday afternoon.

Donald Freer, 25, of 143 Pine Grove avenue, owner and operator of a sedan, suffered a head injury in the Hasbrouck avenue accident, and Frederick F. Miller, 26, of 43 Pine street, reported as injured right hand after the motorcycle mishap.

Officers William Slover and Harry Tempelaar, reported at 11:41 p. m., that the Freer sedan, and two cars were involved in the downtown mishap.

Freer's car, they said, headed south on Hasbrouck avenue, first struck the car of Domenico Carputo, of 416½ Hasbrouck avenue, and forced it into the car of June B. Crosby, of 416 Hasbrouck avenue, as both were parked near those addresses.

All were damaged and the Freer car was towed from the scene, the report said. Freer was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of the head injury.

An unknown vehicle was listed as the cause of the other mishap, reported at 4:50 p. m., by Officer Julius Glassman. Miller, the report said, was headed north on Broadway on the motorcycle, when the unknown car forced him into the car of John David Rockefeller, of 112 Downs street. He was knocked from the cycle and his right hand was injured.

Light Knocked Down

The traffic light at Washington and Hurley avenues was knocked out of commission when struck by a truck this morning. Police said the truck was driven by Walter Bates, of Newburgh, who said another vehicle crowded him as he was headed west on Washington avenue.

He added that "we'll be submitting a program to Congress in the near future" under which the federal government would pay 75 to 90 per cent of the cost. The individual states would provide land for the shelters.

Alert Problems

Wednesday.

Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson praised this year's exercise as the best yet, but said he wants to inject more realism into the next "Operation Alert."

Peterson flew into Washington for an hour yesterday from his hideaway operation headquarters to appear on a (CBS) radio show.

"Instead of telling the people in the cities and states what the pattern is going to be, what bomb will be exploded, at what point and at what time, I would like to work out a method by which no one but two or three men would write the attack plan, and the information would be transmitted to the cities where the attack was going to occur just at the last moment."

Peterson said one thing learned in this year's exercise was that "large public shelters employing the dome principle" would have to be built approximately 2½ miles away from vital target areas.

He added that "we'll be submitting a program to Congress in the near future" under which the federal government would pay 75 to 90 per cent of the cost. The individual states would provide land for the shelters.

BACK-YARD SPEEDWAY—Neighborhood youngsters have made a "hotrod speedway" in the back yard of the Carl Goertzen house in Hutchinson, Kan. The cars, soapbox variety, are two-man-powered—a driver and a pusher. It was Mrs. Goertzen's idea, persuading her son Wayne, 15, that this was an easy way "to get rid of all the back-yard stickers." Race winners split a dime prize, furnished by her.

Will Let Ike Decide

Boston, July 24 (AP)—Gov.

Christian A. Herter (R) of Massachusetts said today he still isn't a candidate for vice presidential nomination despite Harold E. Stassen's announced support of him. However, Herter reiterated at a news conference his willingness to "do anything the President asked me to do." Herter previously said he would seek the second place on the GOP ticket only if President Eisenhower so requested. Herter had "no comment" to queries on a news report he had been asked a few days ago to present Vice President Nixon's name to the San Francisco convention for renomination. The "no comment" applied also to queries as to who had asked, if such a request was made, and whether he would do it.

Local Television

ient volume to permit continued operation on a sound financial basis.

"Our experience parallels that of many other operators of UHF stations. The Federal Communications Commission has issued some 363 grants for UHF television stations. Only 151 of these ever started operations, and more than one-third of those that did later went off the air.

"THE FCC RECENTLY released a report proposing for consideration both long-range and interim changes in their television allocation plan. Several of these are designed to help UHF, but we believe it will take a minimum of several months and possibly several years before constructive results can be achieved. One of the proposed changes involves the Albany-Schenectady-Troy area. If UHF is strengthened in the capital district it will doubtless benefit Kingston as well.

"Although WKNY-TV will stop telecasting tomorrow, we are working on several plans to permit resumption of operations. If anyone of these is successful, WKNY-TV will return to the air.

"We pledge our best efforts to arrive at a solution that will again make possible a television station here."

Senate Not

successful pleas to Knowland and Bridges.

"MY POSITION is unchanged," Bridges told reporters afterwards. He said the same was true of Knowland and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), the other sponsor of the amendment.

The amendment would allow this government to continue to provide maintenance and spare parts for American equipment Tito already has, but shut off abruptly the shipment of planes and other new arms to Yugoslavia.

The administration kept up its pleas to other senators to leave to Eisenhower's discretion whether to cut off Yugoslav help. Both the House and the Senate have approved such a provision in the authorization bill already enacted.

Sen. Ellender (D-La.) who led a close but unsuccessful fight last week to cut military assistance below the $2,300,000 recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he will seek 10 per cent reductions in economic aid today, but that he will oppose Bridges and Knowland on their Yugoslav amendment.

Italy Wants Stern Action Against Careless Drivers

July 24 (AP)—Campaign have been launched in Italy to punish traffic offenders body and soul.

The state is talking about "decisive action" to crack down on careless drivers who roar along narrow Italian roads in ever-growing numbers and speeds. And the Roman Catholic Church has been urged to impose moral penalties.

Italians have been dying in frightening numbers in automobile accidents—about 5,800 a year. This is about three times the U. S. rate based on comparative vehicle registrations.

NEITHER LAWS nor sermons can do much about one of the basic reasons for the bloodshed. Most Italy highways are ancient. Via Aurelia, main coastal road from Rome to the Riviera, was staked out in the third century. Via Flaminia, from Rome to the northern Adriatic, was finished in 220 B.C.

Troops marched to battle against Hannibal on the Appian Way, still the straightest "super-highway" in Italy.

A foreign tourist, caught in a maze of traffic, soon discovers that city streets were built for medieval horses, not for Fiats or Ferraris—let alone Cadillacs.

THAT'S HALF the deadly mixture, the other half is the fact that Italian cars are fast, their drivers love to handle them like racers and there has been insufficient law enforcement to stop them.

Blast along at 100 miles an hour on a zig-zag highway and until very recently you'd get if you escaped disaster, would be a paternal smile from the traffic cop.

A driver can be arrested and his license suspended for endangering the life of another, but the law has rarely been enforced. There is no speed limit.

HEEDING THE recent press campaign, the Ministry of Interior announced last week that orders have gone out to provincial authorities to enforce what laws there are "with full vigor."

A weekly magazine published in the Vatican but having no other official connection with the holy city, "Osservatore Della Domenica," has led the church campaign. On July 11 the magazine published an article entitled "thou shall not kill" and warned Catholics that the fifth commandment applies to crimes on highways.

A WEEK later an expert in the Vatican's cannon law wrote in the magazine that the church could and should hand out ecclesiastical punishments to traffic offenders.

In the worst cases, deadly drivers could be punished by a "personal interdiction" which would be virtual excommunication, wrote Prof. Pio Ciprotti.

Vatican sources say that high prelates are studying the proposals seriously.

APPROACHING TO THE PRESIDENCY

As the heavy presidential campaigning gets under way in the months ahead, the American people will be trying hard to weigh not only President Eisenhower's capacity to serve but his whole approach to his job.

And there is a possibility that the two may become confused unless a determined effort is made to sort them out.

For example, neither former President Harry Truman nor 1956 aspirant Adlai Stevenson believe the President's health should be dwelt upon in the campaign. But Mr. Truman thinks Democrats can talk about whether Mr. Eisenhower has been a "part-time President." And Stevenson often speaks of what he calls the present "diminution of the Presidency."

Here is where confusion can enter. Many who use the term "part-time President" are thinking about time not spent in Washington or at the White House desk. But Stevenson has something else in mind.

He, and some others, believe Mr. Eisenhower has the wrong approach to his task. They will say this even when he is able to be at it full-time. They think he is converting it into a smaller job than it should be.

These critics contend, for one thing, that the President delegates too much authority to non-elective officials.

They argue that in this drive to make the office of President a more efficient operation he has often reduced his own role to that of mere referee among competing, or quarreling, points of view.

In other words, they say he simply asks cabinet or agency heads to prepare their programs for him to pass upon, and where they conflict he will decide the course.

There is no question Mr. Eisenhower has modified the executive establishment, as most every president does in some way or other. What the people must determine if they can is whether he has improved it, as Republicans insist, or reduced its stature as Stevenson asserts.

Obviously, merely changing the job doesn't automatically hurt it. We must guard against any argument that seems to suggest the Presidency is today less effective than it used to be.

Republicans declare that it is misleading to say the President has downgraded his job by organizing it so that fewer routine matters come before him and he devotes himself to "refereeing" on the big policy questions.

They would say it has always been thus on top issues—that the grubby work of basic programming is done at lower levels and the President enters the picture only when the moment of delicate, and difficult, choice arrives.

And they would argue that the problem of such choices is the very heart of the Presidency—not a matter of calling balls and strikes but a hard, lonely, soul-searching task which can be delegated to no one.

Which analysis of Mr. Eisenhower's approach is the correct one is what the voters must decide, and at the same time keep separate from the wholly different matter his fitness to serve.

HELPING HANDS ACROSS THE SEA

The people of the United States are most grateful for the generous and skillful assistance lent by Swiss mountain climbers in the hazardous work of removing victims and probing the wreckage of the two-plane crash over the Grand Canyon.

The offer of that aid by Swiss officials was not only a gesture of Swiss-American friendship but a sign of that common humanity among all peoples which asserts itself when tragedy strikes.

In this instance the expert Swiss air rescue squad not only helped take out the bodies of crash victims, but assisted in the vital work of salvaging plane parts which could hold the key to the shocking collision.

To the extent that this accident is thoroughly explained and understood, millions of other air passengers now and in the future may be made safer in flight. So the Swiss helping hand was important.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
THE CENTRAL PROBLEM

It can now be established by a wealth of detail that the essential reason for the failure of the Western countries to grasp what Soviet Russia was doing to them during the entire period of Stalin's rule (1924-1953) has been that the ruling men of these countries, including our own, resisted any understanding of Marxism-Leninism and therefore had no conception as to the motivation of the Russian leadership. Stalin's great power was derived from the headship of the churchlike organization, to which he acceded in 1922. As such, he did not claim infallibility; he insisted upon it.

Without understanding that, every detail of conduct is without meaning. The leadership of Soviet Russia pursues Marxism-Leninism orthodoxly, and the depth of the orthodoxy can be measured by the present quarrel over the downgrading of Stalin. For what appears most clearly in that is that after more than three decades of Stalin, the cult of personality only displayed itself on the surface; the basic belief of Soviet people anywhere is in Marxism-Leninism which the American Marxist theoretician, Howard Selsam, in his "Handbook of Philosophy" has stated, so succinctly that it ought to be understandable even by pragmatic politicians, even by those who were sold on the original Marshall Plan and believed that money buys everything, including friendship, but could not realize the potent force of a belief.

Selsam says:
"... Man, a part of nature and its highest product, changes and controls nature by means of tools and thereby compels the forces of nature to serve his ends. ..."

In that one sentence lies the whole of the Marxist concept of the world and life and man and the progress of human history. In fact, it was American financial assistance which sustained the British Labour government on its socialist road. And even in our own country, we have pledged the future of power to the atom, a wholly socialist enterprise which makes the present quarrel between public and private power ridiculous.

The Marxist demands more than the abolition of private property. He believes that it is historically inevitable that the next stage of advanced human society is the Marxist stage, which in our terms means the abolition of our traditions, our religion, our particular type of family system, as well as private property.

It is, of course, possible to make a temporary deal with any country, but we must not be surprised if the other country interprets the deal in terms of its own morals. Lenin, writing on the "fundamental law of revolution," said:
"... It is not sufficient for revolution that the exploited and oppressed masses understand the impossibility of living in the old way and demand changes; for the revolution it is necessary that the exploiters should not be able to live and rule in the old way. Only when the 'lower classes' do not want the old way when the 'upper classes' cannot continue in the old way then only can the revolution be victorious."

This means that a revolution can only follow a national crisis and it is the function of the Kremlin to bring on a national crisis in every country. Its propaganda is nearly everywhere most successful among those who are regarded as "the upper classes."

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.
BED REST

In discussing the various problems which arise during convalescence, many of us may not realize that enforced bed rest can cause various complications in the body. We may think that it cannot harm a person to lie quietly in bed; however, within a few days after being put to bed, there are marked changes to be found in the body. Congestion at the base of the lungs, partial stoppage of the circulation in the legs, and constipation rapidly develop. Very little change is required to convert these to certain types of pneumonia and thrombophlebitis. A blood clot in the chest is a frequent complication of enforced rest.

In addition, there are profound changes in the chemical and mineral metabolism (working of the body processes). If a healthy person's legs are put in a plaster cast, there will be a loss of nitrogen, phosphorus, sulphur and potassium equal to four pounds of muscle material during the first six weeks. Muscular power and efficiency, resistance to fatigue, and co-ordination all show a marked deterioration with only a week of bed rest and are greater with longer periods of rest. This is comparable to the rapid deterioration of physical efficiency experienced by an athlete when he stops his training program.

There are similar changes in the heart and blood vessel system. In less than a week of bed rest, the vasomotor control (the control that dilates and constricts the walls of the blood vessels) is sufficiently impaired that fainting can readily be induced when the head is elevated so that blood is drawn away from it to the lower part of the body. After four weeks' bed rest, a period of two weeks' restraining is needed to restore the cardiovascular (heart and blood vessel) efficiency to what it was before the enforced bed rest. This is an important part of the treatment after coronary attacks.

In conditions where fever is present, the metabolic rate (rate at which all the body processes are working) is greatly increased so that the changes and deterioration will be more rapid and more profound. Also, during acute illnesses, the calorie or food requirements of the body are seldom met and the body must draw upon its own stores to meet the energy requirements. We must remember that it requires energy just for the heart to beat and the lungs to breathe. This will increase the rate of tissue breakdown.

In addition, there are special effects in various illnesses. For example, in pneumonia there is loss of protein from the tissues; if there is hemorrhage there is loss of protein and red blood cells. In gastroenteritis (inflammation of the stomach and small bowel), with vomiting and diarrhea, there is rapid dehydration (drying out) of the body with loss of minerals as well as fluid. We must think of the period of convalescence as a time to restore not only the calories and fluids that have been lost but also the minerals and protein. To shorten the time of convalescence, these four items must be given as much as possible.

Washington (NEA)—"Fourth for paddle ball?"

That's the cry these days among the athletic types around the House of Representatives.

It's become such a popular sport at the House gym that they have an informal organization going known as the Paddle Ball Club. Approximately 150 members belong, and about all you have to do to qualify is know how to take a shower.

Despite the hectic legislative schedule during the wind-up of Congress, avid members usually manage to sneak in a game at least once a day.

Played like handball, but with a paddle twice the size of a ping-pong paddle, the game requires four players, two on each team.

Unofficially recognized champs right now are Reps. Dante Fascell (D-Fla.) and Olin "Tiger" Teague (D-Texas).

COUPLE of minesweepers from the Netherlands parked at Pier 5 other day for a brief visit so U. S. naval officials could take a close look at the Dutch-designed ships.

Question now arises whether our Navy brass will ever get their eyeballs unscrewed after a little cocktail that was thrown on shipboard in their honor.

Seems these lowland folk have a fondness for their Dutch gin which always appears on such occasions. Horrible thing about it is you can't mix it with anything else.

"Fastes awful that way," explains Netherlands First Secretary Jonkheer H. A. Teixeira de Mattos. "You must drink it straight."

Well, it was a slam-bang party and the Navy got a pretty fair idea of the high-powered equipment those little Dutch minesweepers can carry.

Guests are still trying to pronounce Jonkheer's whole name, by the way. And the moniker of the embassy charge d'affaires is just as tough. He's Baron van Voorst tot Voorst.

HERE'S A Republican congressman who can get along fine without the President's help.

On the way back to Washington on a Sunday evening Rep. Alvin Bush (R-Pa.) lost one of the wheels of his car. He happened to be in Gettysburg at the time and not far from Ike's farm.

Soon Bush found that his car couldn't be fixed until the following day. That put him in a fix because he had to attend a meeting early the next morning. And the last bus to the capital had just left.

A man of action, he located an automobile dealer, turned in his three-wheeler for a new car, and drove off.

ALSO IN THE car department:

Every morning government employees driving to work catch a glimpse of a bright green Ford Thunderbird with a hand-painted white stripe down the side, streaking towards the capital.

But most of them don't know that the passenger with the big grin is Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.).

The driver is the senator's legislative assistant who picks him up every morning on the way to work.

EVERY ONCE in a while something comes along that convinces dripping residents of Washington that it's worth it to stick around in the summer. The lucky ones, that is.

Other evening Harry M. Davidson, executive V.P. of the Hertz Co., one the capital's largest department stores, rented the luxury liner, S. S. Silver Star.

Then he invited some 400 friends to drop by in formal dress for a night of dancing. Five bars spread around the ship served everything from champagne to scotch and by midnight guests were rocking the boat.

Happily moving among the four buffet tables were Senators Dennis Chavez (D-NM) and George Malone (R-Nev) and an ample number of ambassadors. They could dig into lobster, salmon, turkey, ham and hundreds of smaller goodies.

The ship never left the pier, which was handy for the latecomers. The hangers-on didn't depart until after 2 a. m., and most of them had lost their sea legs.

ANOTHER CONSOLATION for sticking out the heat is the next-to-nothing outfits gals are sporting around town.

It's especially delightful for the old codgers up on Capitol Hill where gorgeous secretaries roam about by the dozens. But one unappreciative congressman had the nerve to question the legality of an eye-opening sleeveless dress a pretty young thing in his office was wearing. He thought the outfit was breaking House regulations.

"Not so," she said pertly. "I'm just exercising my rights."

Whereupon she quoted Article 2 of the Bill of Rights:

"The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

So They Say..

I am delighted to hear that the President feels in good enough health to run again. The nation will benefit in the coming months from a searching and vigorous debate on our urgent problems.

I think that it would be correct to say that his (President Eisenhower's) convalescence does not end until he returns to a full work load at the White House.

Stassen's Bid for Herter Is Biggest Faux Pas of Career

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 23—Harold Stassen, once governor of Minnesota and now a special assistant to President Eisenhower in charge of "disarmament" negotiations, has made the biggest faux pas of his political career and set in motion a movement that could result in such a serious cleavage inside the Republican party as to destroy the chances of re-electing Mr. Eisenhower.

Merely to have announced that he favors Gov. Herter instead of Vice President Nixon for the second place on the ticket would not in itself have caused a big sensation, but the grounds on which Mr. Stassen put it reveals to the nation that there may be some serious dissonance inside the Eisenhower administration and that what's been regarded as an Eisenhower-Dulles pro-American policy is really being threatened from within by proponents of a pro-European and pro-Asian policy.

THE KEY SENTENCE in Mr. Stassen's strange declaration is this: "The independent people at home, important portions of the population abroad, and the uncommitted nations in the world would have greater confidence in an Eisenhower-Herter ticket."

It will be a surprise to most Americans to learn that European and Asian leaders have to be satisfied before the Republican National Convention can pick a Vice Presidential nominee. For undoubtedly Mr. Nixon doesn't please Messrs. Nasser, Nehru and Tito. This would give the Democrats, of course, a lively issue, as the voters in the past have shown themselves very sensitive about any suggestion that they must consider foreign influences in deciding an American election.

Gov. Herter is a fine man and an able one, but now he becomes identified with all the handicaps of his sponsor—Mr. Stassen—and of the New York city group, too, which is backing this latest move to "dump Nixon."

The inuendo in the Stassen statement about "important portions of the population abroad and the uncommitted nations in the world" liking Mr. Herter so much could split the Republican party. For obviously many Middle West Republicans are bound to look with suspicion on any movement that is tied up with foreign economic or financial intrigue. Mr. Stassen himself is vulnerable on this phase of present-day policies. Only last week Sen. McClellan, D. of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, issued a majority report bitterly criticizing Mr. Stassen for helping the Russians get materials they could use in armament preparation. Mr. McClellan wrote:

"AS IS CLEARLY documented in the report (concerning the relaxation of international controls over trade with the Soviet bloc), the American people and Congress were misled about the results of this 1954 agreement (with the Allies) by the statements of Mr. Harold Stassen."

Meanwhile, the Democrats in Congress have indicated by their public comments how gleeful they now are over the prospect of a split in the Republican party. It's strange how the apocryphal can be upset overnight, and what looked like a sure thing for Mr. Eisenhower now becomes a big question mark until he himself clears the air.

Statement Could Hurt GOP

Stassen's Attack on Nixon Linked Other Party Leaders

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 24 (AP)—When Harold E. Stassen gambled his own political future by opposing renomination of Vice President Nixon, he linked other Republicans with him.

Stassen, special assistant on disarmament to President Eisenhower, denied he was acting as "front man" for anyone in trying to keep Nixon off the ticket.

BUT HE SAID in an interview at his home last night a group of "Republican leaders"—whom he wouldn't identify—had collaborated with him in using professional pollsters to test public sentiment on the vice presidency.

Stassen said he was not speaking for these "leaders" and that they would speak out and identify themselves in due time. But he said he had consulted with them before making his statement.

Now the question becomes, who are they? And how influential are they?

THE POLLS, Stassen said, had been made repeatedly over the past month. Among whom? Republicans, Laborites, and others. What questions were asked? A number about possible running mates for Eisenhower.

He said the polls showed the re-election chances of Eisenhower would be 6 per cent better with Gov. Christian A. Herter as his vice presidential running mate than with Nixon on the ticket.

There can be no doubt the statement did the Republican party no good if its convention in August picks Nixon again. Stassen, in calling for Nixon to step aside, angered many professional Republican politicians.

IT MAY COST Stassen his job. If that happens, his political future looks dark indeed—although he said at his home he didn't think he'd be fired or pressured out. He said he has no intention of resigning.

What he did, Stassen said, was to "fulfill my duty and responsibility as I see it to the President and to our country, and to our Republican party."

He told Eisenhower Friday what he was going to do yesterday.

If the Nixon forces think while he was Battle Act Administrator.

The report itself says: "The Battle Act (mutual defense assistance control act of 1951) calls for termination of aid to nations that knowingly ship items of strategic significance to the Communist nations...."

"Mr. Harold E. Stassen, as Battle Act Administrator, in effect circumvented the Battle Act by determining that items of manifest strategic significance, and which had been so regarded prior to the 1954 revision, were not strategic for purposes of Allied trade with the Communist bloc."

The report goes on to accuse Mr. Stassen of having "misrepresented facts," as having been "an arrogant, evasive and uncandid witness" when he testified. It says that he "is to be severely criticized for his conduct in the matter."

The big question now will arise as to what group or groups were behind Mr. Stassen, both in this country and in Western countries, in trying to soften the embargo on strategic commodities and whether any of the same influences now are behind his sponsoring of Gov. Herter as a Vice-Presidential candidate. For a move such as Harold Stassen made was no spur-of-the-moment decision, but the carefully conceived plan of a group of New York business and financial men who have been trying all through the present session of Congress to get vast appropriations for foreign aid "without any strings."

THERE ARE unconfirmed rumors here that Paul Hoffman is one of the men back of the Herter candidacy. Mr. Hoffman was Administrator of Economic Aid in Europe under President Truman and last week was nominated as a Republican to be a delegate to the UN. Although he was confirmed, sixteen Republicans and six Democrats in the Senate voted against him.

Mr. Stassen says an Eisenhower-Herter ticket "will run at least 6 per cent stronger than an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket." But he has overlooked the prospect that, by dropping Nixon, there would be at least a 20 per cent defection of regular Republicans who wouldn't go to the polls at all if President Eisenhower goes back on his pledge to support Nixon. For that's what the election has been construed to mean by Republican leaders from Chairman Leonard Hall down to the rank and file. "Double-crossing" doesn't sit well in politics, and the betting is 100-to-1 that Mr. Eisenhower will never be guilty of it no matter how strong the pressure from close personal friends in New York city.

Meanwhile, the Democrats in Congress have indicated by their public comments how gleeful they now are over the prospect of a split in the Republican party. It's strange how the apocryphal can be upset overnight, and what looked like a sure thing for Mr. Eisenhower now becomes a big question mark until he himself clears the air.

More Women Urged In Field of Research

New York (AP)—Women make up nearly one third of the nation's working force, but only 1 out of 20 scientific workers is a woman.

One of America's top industrial scientists said today the field of research is wide open for women—and that thousands are urgently needed. The pay range is from $4,000 a year to $12,000 or more, depending on ability.

"If we want to continue to be the scientific leader of the world, we are going to have to increase the size of our technological force," explained Dr. A. B. Kinzel. "Women are a factor, and we can't overlook them."

"Industrial research right now could use 5,000 to 10,000 women a year—and more in the future," Dr. Kinzel, at 56 the holder of more than 40 patents, is vice president in charge of research for the giant Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation. He supervises 23 laboratories.

"We have 630 ranking scientists engaged in basic research, of whom only 23 are women," he continued. "But we'd like more. If we could find them, our firm alone could make room within a year or two for 500 young women with B.S. or Ph.D. degrees."

Dr. Kinzel is a stout believer that women are just as brainy as men, and says the reason America has produced so few outstanding lady scientists is simply because so few women in the past entered the field.

But more are now. Only 183 women were engaged in chemical research in 1941. Now there are about 1,000.

"When it comes to science," said Dr. Kinzel, "women may seem a bit more emotional and less objective than men. But they are also more intuitive and less inhibited in their thinking."

"Invention this is a great help. Inhibition of thought is a real block to inventiveness."

"Intelligent women are less likely than men to take it for granted that a thing can't be done. They are more likely, therefore, to come up with a fresh approach to a problem."

A GIRL WITH A Ph. D. degree can get $600 a month in research, twice the salary of a secretary. But Dr. Kinzel pointed out she also works in surroundings more pleasant than those in an average business office—and has more opportunity to meet and marry a man of her own professional and cultural class. A lot of her male co-workers in the test tube and Bunsen burner set are still bachelors.

"Scientific work is no deterrent to romance," said Dr. Kinzel emphatically. "And marriages between two people interested in science seem to work out better on the average than between people who don't share similar interest."

"Nor does marriage need to terminate a woman's career. She can return to her job. If she's a good scientist, she can also at the same time be a good housewife and mother."

"There is no basic conflict. In fact there is less conflict, because in true science you don't work under a time pressure. No boss is standing over you demanding an immediate result."

Dr. Kinzel feels that in addition to the high pay, scientific work is particularly rewarding in terms of a feeling of service and personal achievement.

What about it, girls? Science helped free modern women from drudgery. How about the ladies pitching in now and helping free science?

'Met' Contract Signed

New York, July 24 (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera Assn. has signed a contract with a labor union and the once canceled 1956-57 season is on again. The opera company approved an agreement with the American Guild of Musical Artists (AGMA) yesterday. Last week the association canceled the coming season in a dispute with AGMA over the dual job status of 31-year-old Robert Herman.

Near Riot Follows Party

Boston, July 24 (AP)—A rock 'n' roll party aboard a Boston harbor excursion vessel turned into a near riot last night when numerous fights erupted among the 2,600 persons aboard. Eyewitnesses reported fighting began among the passengers almost as soon as the vessel Boston Belle left its dock and continued during the more than two hours of the cruise while an orchestra played rock 'n' roll rhythms. Eyewitnesses said further that as soon as one fight subsided another began almost immediately among others in the organization which had chartered the diesel-engine ship.

Would Bar Tito Aid

New Haven, Conn., July 24 (AP)—The Knights of Columbus urged today that the United States discontinue military and economic aid to Yugoslavia. The Roman Catholic fraternal organization, through the executive committee of the supreme board of directors, expressed the conviction in a message to President Eisenhower and congressional leaders that President Tito "neither sympathizes with nor can be relied upon to support the American concept of human freedom."

Fire Razes Plant

Chatham, Ont., July 24 (AP)—A spectacular fire last night razed a big tile drying plant at the James Cornhill and Sons brickyard on Chatham's eastern outskirts. Loss was estimated at more than $100,000. All the city's fire-fighting equipment was called out and the blaze was controlled after a two-hour battle. Origin of the fire was not immediately determined. Some of the company's 35 employees were working in the plant shortly before the alarm was given. None was injured.

Admits Killing Officer

Chicago, July 24 (AP)—A teenage youth, arrested for speeding and other traffic violations, admitted today, police said, he shot and killed a policeman in the suburban McCook police station yesterday. The youth, Henry Westley, 17, said he fatally shot policeman Robert Giovannoni, 37, after taking the policeman's revolver from a desk and deciding to rob him and destroy records of his arrest. Police said the youth told them Giovannoni tried to resist, and "I shot him twice."

Excess speed was blamed for 12,380 traffic deaths and injuries to 659,000 persons in the United States during 1954.

Listed below is the proposed list of assessments, computed at 36% of the appraised value, as determined under the recently completed revaluation program. Taxpayers may determine the appraised value by multiplying the assessed value by 2.77.

Every effort has been made to maintain a uniform standard of value on all properties in order to correct the gross inequalities which have existed in the tax roll heretofore.

We respectfully request all taxpayers to give earnest consideration and a fair examination to the results of this program. While the revaluation program was intended solely to equalize all values, it has, nevertheless, resulted in a substantial overall increase in the assessment roll. This will result in a corresponding decrease in the tax rate, subject to budgetary changes.

Any person who has good reason to believe that his property has been inequitably assessed and who wishes to obtain further information prior to Grievance Day, which will be August 14, 1956, may make an appointment for this purpose by calling the Assessor's Office, tel. 1993. Such requests for appointments should be made prior to August 8, 1956.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day there was made mention of our old summer trolley cars as they used to dash down the "flats" or "up" and "downs" as some folks called that last block into Kingston Point Park. A number of readers told me they would like to enjoy such a ride again on an open summer trolley.

That is not as impossible as some folks think. There are other communities that took advantage of the old trolley cars, while ours vanished with the Mary Powell, Norwich, Skillypot and other Kingstonian historical items that would have brought thousands of people here as they do to other parts of the country. They took advantage of folks who still have a heart for what was, and want to show it to their youngsters. True Magazine of August has a colorful feature article on just that, trolley cars, by A. W. Martinez.

The location is Branford Conn. just off highway 142. The group of men call themselves Branford Electric Railway Assn. which number about 70 from all walks of life and from as far as Alaska whose hobby is collecting old trolley cars. They restore them to running order and run them on a mile and a quarter scenic route that includes trestles, an old rock quarry, peaceful woodland and meadow and the inlets from nearby Long Island Sound. How did it all come about? Just before the end of World War 2 they heard that the trolley lines would be abandoned in favor of buses. In 1945 they went to the general manager R. J. Bennett of the Connecticut Co. and said they would like to buy the stretch of land that ran through the open country between Branford and Short Beach and make an operating trolley museum out of it.

Bennett liked the idea so much that instead of selling it for the scrap value of $15,000 gave them the 10 acre stretch of meadowland for only $3,500, and with it he threw in the tracks, overhead lines and most of the equipment which makes up the small railroad.

The trolley company under Bennett went even further by turning over some ancient cars it had been preserving in its barn, one of these being the prized possession of the company, a parlor-car. It is the only one in existence in America. It had been a special car for the original Connecticut Co. to take around the directors and stockholders to inspect their empire.

The car is carpeted, has oak-paneled interior and wicker lounge chairs in the lounge and two other compartments, also a steward's galley and stained-glass rest room.

At one time President William Howard Taft rode in this car. On March 9, 1947, accompanied by brass bands and newsreel cameras this most prized possession moved majestically out of the New Haven barns down the rails toward the Branford trolley Museum a few miles away. The hobbyist had raised their $3,500 through "Gay Nineties" trolley excursions and open-air "breezers" from enthusiastic passengers in the two years.

Now some 2 years later they have over 30 gaily colored trolleys of all vintage, and their members are always on the lookout for more. They even have a "little snub-nose two trucker called old '1792' for which they paid $185. It helped change the name of the baseball team from Brooklyn Superbas to Brooklyn Dodgers, as it ran past Washington Park, now Ebbets Field right along an unfenced outfield and the ball-players had to sometimes dodge the trolley, so the fans applied the name that stuck. Will tell more about this Trolley Museum another time.

Was it wise for East to let South play the hand at four spades? Not very. There was, of course, a chance to beat four spades, if South played the hand badly. But the odds favored South to make his contract.

East can well afford to bid five hearts as a sacrifice. It must expect to be doubled and defeated. This will cost only 100 points, for the defenders can take only two clubs and one spade. If they begin by leading three top clubs, West will ruff, draw trumps, and run the diamonds to discard his losing spade. West will then make his doubled contract of five hearts!

At worst, however, East will lose 100 points if he bids five hearts. This is much better than allowing South to make four spades.

When the hand was actually played, South was permitted to become declarer at a contract of four spades. The defenders began by taking the ace of hearts and two top diamonds. Eventually the contract depended on guessing the right way to play the trumps.

By this time South knew that West had made a shutout bid with a long heart suit headed by the ace and some diamonds headed by the queen. If West also held K-x in spades, he would have opened with one heart rather than three hearts. South therefore went up with dummy's ace of spades, catching the singleton king and making his game contract.

Dies in Car Mishap

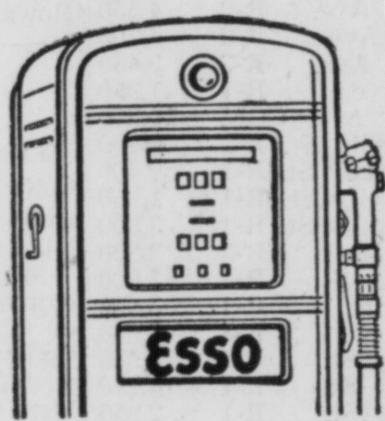

Dannemora, N. Y., July 23 (P) — An 18-year-old airman was killed and three other airmen were injured today when their automobile overturned on Route 374 2½ miles west of here. Gary G. Breetner of St. Paul, Minn., was killed. State police said the others were James M. Davison, 19, of Newville, Pa., who was reported in critical condition in a Plattsburgh hospital; Dorland Moyer, 18, of Millmont, Pa., and Samuel Gantt, 19, of Hedgesville, W. Va. The latter two were reported in fair condition. All were airmen, third class, stationed at Plattsburgh Air Force Base, near the northern New York community.

COMING AUGUST 6—from Esso Research...

To This Area (and other areas as soon as possible)

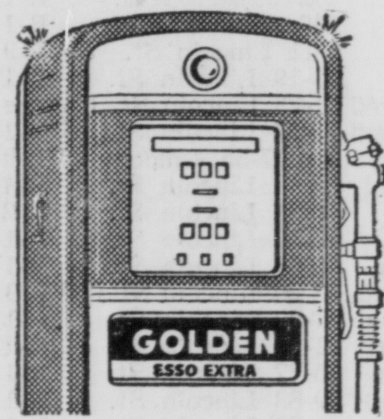

A THIRD BRILLIANT GASOLINE

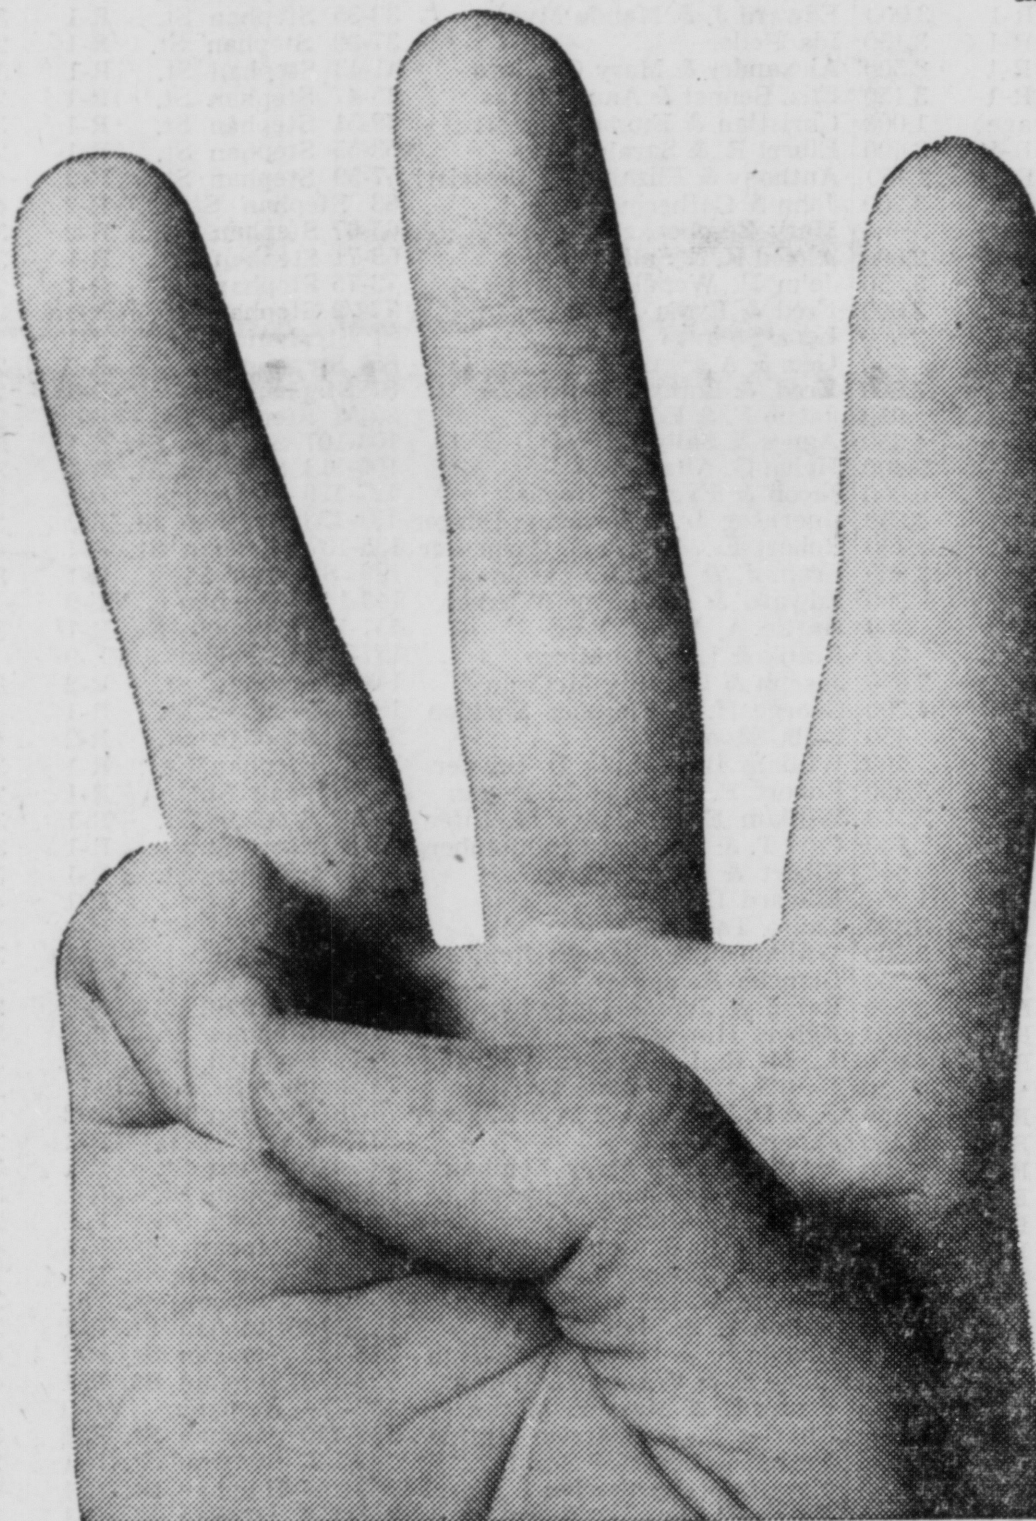

ESSO for the millions of motorists who want a fine gasoline at "regular" price... the most popular gasoline sold in the area served by Esso Dealers.

ESSO EXTRA Gasoline, now with Vitane® added — designed for those who prefer the outstanding performance that only a premium gasoline delivers.

New GOLDEN ESSO EXTRA — an entirely new gasoline. The first and finest gasoline tailor-made for the all-around requirements of the new higher compression engines. More costly to make — does more for you.

These are the facts:

No one gasoline can economically satisfy the widening power needs of today's cars.

No two gasolines can give every motorist full value for his gasoline dollar.

Now THREE gasolines, one of which will give your car the right fuel... at the most economical price!

WHY ESSO STANDARD OIL COMPANY LEADS THE WAY WITH THE THREE-FUEL SYSTEM

The fast-increasing compression ratios of today's engines call for a new look at the gasoline picture. No gasoline in this area — not even ESSO EXTRA — can satisfy all of these new engines. Therefore Esso Research developed the first complete, all-around fuel designed to do this job.

Next came the question — should this new fuel replace Esso EXTRA? No — because many cars which do need a premium grade actually cannot take full advantage of this new type fuel. Millions already get top performance from ESSO EXTRA, now with Vitane® added — first in sales among all premiums in the entire area where it's sold. And millions of other cars give good performance on Esso Gasoline — which also leads its field in popularity. GOLDEN ESSO EXTRA is more costly to make, and Esso Standard Oil Company believes that no motorist should be made to pay for another man's power needs. So both our other fine gasolines — Esso and ESSO EXTRA — are needed, too.

Boys Still See Him Gang Boss, He Tells Police

London, July 24 (AP)—The man with slicked-back, jet black hair stood up in Old Bailey and said: "I am the boss of the underworld."

Billy Hill spoke in a matter-of-fact way, yet there was an undertone of both pride and defiance.

Scotland Yard detectives in the famed courtroom squirmed. Then Hill, stretching to his full 5 feet 2 inches, walked confidently out of the courtroom to be greeted like a hero by "my boys."

"THE ACCUSING finger is always pointing at me," he protested.

Hill, who has spent 17 of 44 years behind prison bars, made his appearance in court voluntarily. He wanted to deny that he conspired to frame Jack (Spot) Comer, another self-styled "king of the underworld," in a razor slashing.

Comer was acquitted. He accused Hill's minions of slashing one of their own men—and then trying to blame Comer.

THE OPEN RIVALRY of Hill and Comer for the dubious title of ruler of London's underworld has shocked this old capital don't ever carry guns.

A leading judge has described the situation as "something like gang warfare." Scotland Yard inspectors are mapping a campaign. Hill has offered to "help" in a series of interviews and news conferences that would be the envy of a Hollywood movie star.

HILL INSISTS he has retired from the life of crime—though he does so with prideful explanation that "the boys" still look up to him as "the boss."

Hill concedes that he has pipelines into the world of crime but complains:

"EVERYONE REFUSES to believe that for the last seven years, since my last stretch, I have been playing it straight."

Hill still dresses like the movie version of a gang leader. He has a flair for pale gold silk dressing gowns, blue silk pajamas and cork-tipped cigarettes. His favorite drink is pineapple juice.

Hill was born in the slums of London. At 13 he broke into a small shop and stole cigarettes and candy. That cost him a seven-year sentence in a reform school.

He wasn't reformed. Though Hill now insists he's going straight, he frankly admits:

IT WOULD BE silly for me to pretend I haven't made crime pay."

He describes himself as businessman—owner of two London clubs and holding a big interest in a steel business. He says he wants to "get away from it all" and has appealed to the British Home Secretary to arrange for him to settle elsewhere. Two years ago he tried but Australia and South Africa barred him.

"All this publicity needles the police," he says.

"They think I'm getting cocky. I'm not. I was a clever criminal. I say it myself—a very clever criminal."

"They don't want me here and I don't want to stay."

Scotland Yard has no comment on Hill's offer to emigrate. Meanwhile, the self-described "boss of the underworld" is still a familiar figure in his old haunts.

Retiring Miss America Will Marry Singer

Denver, July 23 (AP)—Two weeks after she surrenders her title of Miss America, 19-year-old Sharon Kay Ritchie will marry singer Don Cherry, the couple announced last night.

The reigning Miss America, whose engagement was announced last week by her parents at Grand Island, Neb., can't marry under terms of her contract until after her successor is named at Atlantic City, N. J., in the 1956 pageant which ends Sept. 8.

Smiling radiantly happy, she admitted at a news conference it took only a little while to accept Cherry's proposal.

Miss Ritchie said her fiancé proposed on their second date, in New York City. Cherry, a member of the U. S. Walker Cup golf team, interrupted to explain her acceptance of his proposal:

"She didn't say 'yes' in so many words. She told me: 'you'll have to get me an automatic pilot for the stove. I'm afraid to light a gas range.'"

Cherry said he first met the 19-year-old beauty last May 11 when both appeared at a pageant at his home town, Wichita Falls, Tex.

Predicts Same Ticket

Lake Tahoe, Nev., July 24 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson predicts President Eisenhower will retain Vice President Nixon as his 1956 running mate. Asked for comment on yesterday's suggestion by Harold Stassen that Nixon be dumped in favor of Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts, Stevenson said through an aide: "I am not surprised by this new evidence of the deep and long standing split within the Republican party. But I much doubt that President Eisenhower's steady admiration for Vice President Nixon will crumble in the face of such advice."

Quake Toll Now 109
New Delhi, India, July 24 (AP)—Indian army units dug through wreckage in the northwest coastal town of Anjar today in a search for additional victims from Saturday night's earthquake. The latest official count put the death toll in Anjar township at 109, four hundred persons were reported injured, with 40 in serious condition. An estimated 800 persons were missing. The quake left some 12,000 persons homeless. Five hundred houses were reported destroyed completely and 1,500 others damaged.

Alecca Is Accepting Donations for 'Chair'

It was reported today that many calls are being received from people desiring to donate toward the purchase of a motorized conveyance for a young paraplegic in the Kingston Point section.

Phones started ringing after a picture of him and a new battery-powered "chair" appeared in The Freeman.

The drive for monetary assistance was started by two beach officers, Anthony Alecca and Edison Ferguson.

They and a committee of young people want to help Samuel Frangello, who has been disabled from birth. He visits the beach every day to say a friendly hello to his friends.

Donors may send contributions to Anthony Alecca, 65 Gill street, or phone him to pick them up. He was delegated as treasurer to centralize the donation point.

The new chair is on display at Albany Avenue Garage. It is a type similar to those used on golf courses.

Ike's Brother Is Named President Of Johns Hopkins

Baltimore, July 24 (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, youngest brother to the President and one of his closest advisors, yesterday was elected president of Johns Hopkins University.

THE 56-YEAR-OLD educator, diplomat and expert in many phases of governmental operations accepted the post in a telephone conversation from Panama, where he was attending a meeting with his brother of the Organization of American States. He is one of three men on a special committee to advise the President on all problems of government organization and management.

Johns Hopkins, which is probably best known for its medical school but which also is highly ranked in other fields, will be the third institution of higher learning to come under Eisenhower's leadership. He previously served as President of Kansas State College, his alma mater, and just last month resigned after six years as president of Pennsylvania State University.

Eisenhower, who resigned from Penn State for personal reasons, is expected to assume his new duties in October, succeeding Dr. Lowell J. Reed.

HIS GOVERNMENT service began in 1924, when he became vice consul at Edinburgh, Scotland. In 1926 he was appointed assistant to the secretary of agriculture, and two years later director of information for the Agriculture Department—a post he held until 1941.

Other government positions held include: director of the War Relocation Authority, chairman of the United States National Commission for UNESCO, and member of the President Truman's commission on higher education.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

A SINGLE PEBBLE

By John Hersey

This is a story about the Yangtze river, "that long strip of raw, naked, cruel power", as told by a young American engineer sent to China in the early twenties to study the great river and report to his company as to the advisability of trying to build a dam across it.

There are many surprises in store for the young engineer from which he learns a great deal about the savage Yangtze and also about the Chinese river men and their amazing ability to adapt themselves to their hard lives.

The author's sympathetic portrayal of the seeming contradictions in the Chinese character throws a searching light upon these little understood people; and his vivid descriptions of the wild gorges and foaming rapids of the river make an unforgettable picture.

For the first thousand miles of his journey, the young engineer travels on a British steamer where the river is a broad, muddy stream. That part is uneventful. From the point where he enters the first gorge when the river narrows sharply and proceeds between towering cliffs of limestone, the trip is exciting all the way.

THE SECOND PART of the journey is made on a large Chinese junk, propelled entirely by man power. And what man power. In fact the crew of trackers who, harnessed together with "Old Pebble", the head tracker, leading them as, with straining muscles, they pull the heavy junk through miles of rough water, constitute the high point of the book.

Beside the forty trackers, there are on the boat "Old Big", the owner and his pretty young, soft-voiced wife, "Su-ling" (whom the engineer first thought was his daughter); the before-mentioned "Old Pebble", a man of commanding personality and great intelligence and ability and much younger than the owner; the grotesque, fat cook; the helmsmen and a few other boatmen.

The start of the journey is delayed by the cook, who at the last moment waddles down the gang plank for some forgotten vegetables and returns late in the day, drunk and bearing—not the vegetables—but three live chickens!

The engineer, since he had been told that the junk would sail at dawn, was annoyed by the incident, but the junk owner is entirely undisturbed. In the Chinese calendar one day to start is as good as another.

THE JUNK proceeds upstream, rowed by the oarsmen in calm waters, towed through the gorges and up the rapids by the superhuman strength of the trackers led by Old Pebble, hopping with amazing agility from boulder to boulder along the shore, singing wild songs to set the pace and to cover the groans of exhaustion. The American is torn between admiration of their skill and pity for their role of beasts of burden. Once, when the head tracker after submerging for a long time to loosen a caught towline comes up singing joyously, riding on the towline, the engineer learns from a look in Su-Ling's eyes that she loves Old Pebble. Not that there is a sign of a romance between them. Su-Ling is in every way a loyal wife, sitting long hours by her husband's side, submissive to his lightest wish. Gay or grave by turns, she is surprisingly well-informed for a simple river woman. In fact, a lovely Chinese lady.

As the junk proceeds upriver the excitement grows. The gorges grow wilder and wilder and the rapids more and more dangerous. It becomes a race between the speed of the boat and that of the rising river. Soon it will rise so high as to be closed to navigation. Shooting the rapids becomes a terrifying experience. Old Pebble dispenses with the river pilot usually used for one of the worst rapids and, with a thrilling display of skill and daring, brings the junk through safely.

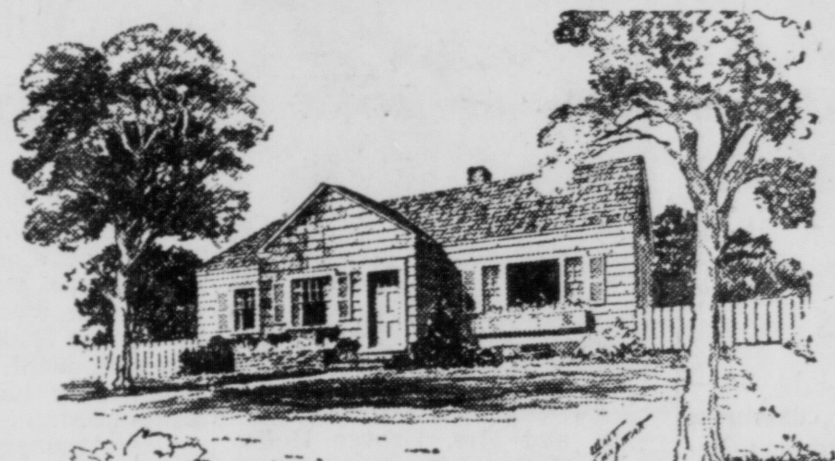

THE STORY reaches its dramatic climax at Wind Box Gorge—the last one of the trip—where the trackers with straining muscles and loud groans (partly of terror) inch their way along a narrow path cut high above the water line in the solid rock of the river bank. One misstep on the river side would mean almost certain death by drowning. Old Pebble made that misstep. How the junk owner, Su-Ling, the cook, the engineer and the others reacted as he hung by his harness over the cliff side make a picture of startling drama.

Altogether a beautifully written tale about a magnificent, untamed river, and the strangely inscrutable people who live on it and love and fear it.

Woman's Most Important Role in Life Is Getting Along With Men, Says Teacher

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The most important job in every woman's life is to get along with men, says Mrs. Florence Pew, who has made a life work of teaching women of all shapes, sizes, and ages to be happy, charming and successful.

This sparkling, silver-haired lady, herself a highly successful wife, mother and executive, explains her point thus:

"Any woman who wants to be successful in life, whether it is in marriage, a career or running a house, has to know how to manage men. A woman must deal with men all her life. She starts by learning how to get along with her father. Next she must learn to be popular with the boys at school.

"Later her life still is ruled by men. She must know how to help her husband, make him happy, aid him in his work and keep him devoted.

"If she has a job, she must get along with her boss. And in everything she does there is some man to be met and won over—the doctor, the butcher, the grocer and the milk man.

"If she merely wants to be a successful shopper, she must understand men."

Mrs. Pew is vice president of Dale Carnegie Publishers and founder of the firm's special courses in human relations for women. As such she spends a good deal of her time traveling all over the world, setting up new classes for women who want to learn to speak up and enjoy life.

Although most women who enroll for the course come to learn public speaking, says Mrs. Pew, many of them reveal other and deeper purposes.

"Some women come in because they are afraid they are losing their husbands," says she. "Others come to learn in a week how to be successful as the wife of a big executive. Most of their problems revolve about men, in one way or another."

To these women, Mrs. Pew gives some well-tested advice on her favorite subject—how to get along with a man:

"Help a man to be gallant. Let him light your cigarette and open doors for you. Seek his advice and respect his opinions. No man likes to have a woman take charge, flag down her own taxicab, order her own meal, try to manage his life as well as hers. The charming woman never lets her efficiency show, even if she heads a worldwide corporation during working hours.

"If your husband or your best beau wants to take you out on the town, or suddenly gets an urge to do some foolish thing such as going to Coney Island or taking a ride on the ferry, always be ready. Fall in with his mood.

"Don't short-ration your man on sugar. Nobody ever had too much love. So if you love him, don't be afraid to show it.

"Let him be a knight on a white charger, and school yourself to be a helpless and adoring helpmate—even if you have the muscles of a mule and a steel-trap mind. Just don't let them show."

TELEPHONE OPERATOR HONORED — Miss Mildred M. Steger (center) with Mrs. Isabel Schoonmaker, chief operator, and Richard Speidel, traffic superintendent, was honored recently for 30 years service as an operator with the New York Telephone Company. A

Operator Serves 30 Years With Local Telephone Company

Miss Mildred M. Steger of 491 Delaware avenue, was honored recently for 30 years' service as an operator with the New York Telephone Company. A commemorative pin with an inlaid ruby stone was presented to her by George Heddy, district traffic superintendent, during a special anniversary luncheon at Judge's Restaurant.

Other management personnel who attended the luncheon were Richard Speidel, assistant traffic superintendent, and Mrs. Isabelle Schoonmaker, chief operator.

Friends of Miss Steger who attended were Miss Estella Stockman, Miss Henrietta Rose, Mrs. Helen Rowland and Mrs. Rita Roach, fellow telephone workers, and Mrs. Ruth Gallagher and Mrs. Marion Kirchhof.

A native of Kingston, Miss Steger has served her entire career in the company's central office here.

Commenting on her 30 years of service with the company, Miss Steger said that after an initial period of service as an operator she decided to try some other type of work.

"However, I came back to my switchboard," Miss Steger observed. "I enjoy dealing with people and my position with the telephone company gives me an opportunity to do this every working day."

Miss Steger said that in her opinion an operator's job never becomes dull, as do many clerical jobs, since each day is sparked by some unusual request from the telephoning public.

"There is a challenge to the job every time I answer a call on my switchboard," Miss Steger continued. "I never know exactly what I will be asked to do and there is an element of mystery—my curiosity is aroused."

"To my way of thinking a job that can offer security and still challenge a lively sense of curiosity, makes every working day pleasurable," she concluded.

Miss Steger is a parishioner of the First Presbyterian Church of Kingston. She is also a member of the Uptate Empire Chapter, Telephone Pioneers of America, a group of telephone employees with 21 or more years of service.

SHORTS FOR SHOPPING

A wife tells me, "My husband and I live in a suburb where we own and operate a small store. Many of the young housewives who live out here come into the store wearing shorts at this season of the year. They also walk through town in shorts and do all their marketing dressed in this fashion. To me this is in shockingly bad taste. Around their own houses and working in the garden, I find no fault with this manner of dress, but when going into town I think they should wear skirts. Do you agree, or am I just plain old-fashioned?"

I agree with you and find the custom very unpleasant.

Gift from Dinner Guest

Dear Mrs. Post: When just two guests come to dinner and only one brings me a gift, what should I do about opening the gift and showing my enthusiasm in front of the empty-handed one? Lately this happened to me. I opened the gift and I know the other guest was very uncomfortable about having brought none. After the dinner she sent me flowers with a note of thanks. Was I right to have opened the present or should I have put it aside until later?

Answer: What you did was entirely right. You could hardly have not thanked the giver of the present. The one who sent you flowers was not obligated to do this at all.

When Hostess Wins the Prize
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for a hostess at her own card party to keep a prize?

Answer: Nothing could be a greater error. Should she win the prize herself, she should give it to the person with the next highest score.

To My Owner

I am your electronic organ, speaking to you, my owner.

I am a church and home organ and don't you just love me. My cousin who will be on display in about six months will really be something. He will have what is called a slide stop, making him have a Hawaiian guitar effect. That is only one of the many new improvements my cousin will have. Lowrey is my name and I am so proud of it. You may see me at Jimmy Winters' showroom at 117 Clinton avenue, where he will be very happy to demonstrate my finer points.—ADV.

Oudemools and 18 Young People To Tour U.S. Areas and Mexico

A caravan left Kingston Sunday for the third annual Mexican tour led by the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool.

Eighteen young people are accompanying the Rev. Mr. Oudemool, pastor of the Old Dutch Reformed Church, and Mrs. Oudemool on the 10,000-mile trip through the United States and Mexico.

MAKING THE trip are Carol Kaercher, Louise Bolash, Tommy Jameson, Jan Oudemool, Joan Slater, Jean Sickles, Teddy Sickles, Marilyn Valentine, Penny Johnson, Arlene Vollmer, Susan Umpleby, Janet Kaercher, Bob Haines, Del Chwatal, Dirk Oudemool, Helen Kukuk, Gary Johnston and Walt Donnaruma.

Itinerary for the six-week visit to Mexico was announced today.

ON THE WAY down the caravan, which travels in two station wagons and sleeps in tents, will stop at Petrified Forest, Arizona, and Grand Canyon. They will visit the Indian pueblo ruins and take a conducted tour of the ruins with an explanation by a ranger. At Desert View Tower they will see some interesting exhibits and hear a short talk on how the earth and canyon were formed.

On Sunday, July 29, they will be at the canyon. Some will take the trip down the canyon on mule back.

THEY REACH Nogales on the Mexican border on Monday, July 30, after driving 3,009 miles across the United States. Taking the West Coast Highway they will drive to Guaymas, 200 miles south, noted as one of the best sport fishing centers in the world, staying overnight at Trailer Park, Mirmar Beach, just north of the city.

August 1 they drive almost 400 miles to Culicán which lies on the borderline between the desert and the tropics. The following day they drive 153 miles to Mazatlan where they will remain for two days.

August 4 they go 337 miles to Guadalajara, second largest city in Mexico, noted for hand-drawn blouses, handkerchiefs, table cloths, embroidered goods, hand-blown glass and leather goods. The group will spend two days in the area, visiting Tlaquepaque, a suburb of Guadalajara, to watch the potters at work, baking and decorating their wares. The market and glass-blowing factory will also be visited.

Monday, August 6, the caravan proceeds 206 miles to Paracho, famous for its musical instruments, and Uruapan where is made the finest lacquerware in all Mexico.

Tuesday, August 7, the caravan travels to Patzcuaro. On Lake Patzcuaro, 7,180 feet above sea level, they will see beautiful islands which can be visited by boat. The lake is world-famous for its butterfly fishing nets. This area is the home of the handsome Tarascan Indians. Souvenirs from this region, silver jewelry in the form of fish or abstract designs, adorned with red roses, lacquerware, pottery animals.

red-checked wool fabrics and woodenware.

On Thursday, August 9, the travelers arrive in Toluca and stay overnight in order to be there early Friday morning for the largest and most fabulous market in Mexico.

THE GROUP will reach Mexico City on Friday, August 11, and remain until Tuesday, August 14. While in Mexico City the travelers will visit the Pyramids of Teotihuacan (the largest pyramid in the world is here), the National Museum which has in it the great sacrificial stone and the Aztec Calendar Stone, the University of Mexico (reportedly the most modern in the world), the national cathedral, the shrine of the Virgin of Guadalupe, Zochimilco (the floating gardens) and will probably take a trip of about 100 miles to Taxco, a great silver mining center famous for its silver shops.

On Wednesday, August 15, the caravan will arrive in Puebla, stopping at Cholulu on the way. Cholulu has 365 churches, each one a gem. This was the center of the Toltec Indians who gave Cortez a lot of trouble. He massacred 3,000 in one day and vowed that he would build a church on every spot where he found one of their pagan shrines. The most noted church, Nuestra Señora de los Remedios, was built at the top of the ancient pyramid honoring their god, Quetzalcoatl. Puebla is the famous tile center where craftsmen have been making the famous Talavera tile since the 17th century.

On Thursday, August 16, the travelers make Oaxaca, where they remain until Saturday. According to the Oudemools, this is the "most beautiful part of Mexico (we think). We stay in an old hacienda which was built at Cortez's orders for one of his chief officers. It has a fine swimming pool. We will visit the Tule tree, supposed to be the oldest tree in the world. Mitla and Monte Alban are two of Mexico's most famous archeological treasures. This area is the home of the Zapotec Indians — perhaps the most highly cultured of the ancient tribes and still one of the most primitive tribes in the country. The whole valley of Oaxaca was given to Cortez by the King of Spain as a reward for his having conquered the country—it is full of gold mines so he didn't do too badly! The Saturday market is terrific—famous for: gold, filigree jewelry, charming black pottery, animal toys, pottery, hand-woven cotton skirts, blouses and tablecloths. Maybe in the market you will get a glimpse of a Tehuana woman—considered to be the most beautiful in the world!"

On Sunday, August 19, they are in Mexico City again, remaining until Wednesday when the caravan continues to Monterrey, thence to Laredo on the border.

At this point, according to the mimeographed itinerary, "everybody can't wait to get home—that bed, that beefsteak, that bathtub, clean clothes, and just plain old Kingston, will seem mighty good! So, we will give you the route we will be coming home on just as fast as we can and just maybe we might be home Wednesday night or, if we can't turn the wheels fast enough, sometime Thursday."

Demands Retrial

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 24 (AP)—Henry Shaw Jr., 47, a truck driver, who pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter June 26 in the killing of his newborn son, today changed his plea to innocent and demanded a trial.

Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz put the case over to Sept. 10 for trial. The indictment charged that Shaw killed the infant the day he was born, March 25, 1950.

More than 400,000 skilled young men under 30 were deferred by the U. S. draft program in World War 2.

Phone-TV Relay

Of the latest design, each pair of antennas is capable of handling up to 15,000 simultaneous telephone messages and several television programs.

The Haliham Hill tower is being constructed by the Long Lines Department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and is expected to be in service this November. At the intersection of two relay routes, it will have two horns directed toward Walden, two toward Hillsdale, two toward Surprise, and two toward Poughquag.

In each direction one antenna receives and the other transmits microwave radio signals that carry telephone conversations and television programs to and from adjoining towers on the route.

Transmitting antennas focus the signals into narrow beams and direct them to the next tower. They are carried from receiving antennas to amplifying equipment based at the foot of each tower where they are "boosted" before resuming their journey, traveling at about the speed of light. Because microwave antennas must be in line-of-sight, the towers are located an average of 30 miles apart.

The express system will bypass large population centers and supplement existing long distance cable facilities.

Four other express routes are now under construction in Long Lines' eastern area—which extends west to the Pennsylvania-Ohio border and south to the Virginia-North Carolina border:—A north-south route between Portland, Me. and Richmond, Va.—An east-west route between New York and Lillyville, Pa., that will eventually link up with Chicago, Detroit and the Pacific Coast.

—A north-south route between Jennerstown, Pa. and Greensboro, N. C.

—An east-west route between Richmond and Roanoke, Va.

Microwave signals operate in a different part of the radio frequency spectrum and cannot be picked up or interfere with home radio or television reception.

Case Is Put Off

The case of James Joseph Beaver, 41, of 753 Broadway, who was arrested early Sunday morning on a charge of driving while intoxicated, has been adjourned until Monday, July 30. Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt of the town of Ulster postponed the case until 1 p. m. on that date at request of Attorney Abram Molyneux who represents the defendant. Mr. Beaver was arrested at 12:10 a. m. Sunday by Kingston state police.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

A Bell Is Donated

To New St. Gregory's

Woodstock, July 24—The Rev. Herald C. Swezy, vicar of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, and rector of the Church of the Ascension, West Park, has announced the gift of a handsome, large bronze bell for the new St. Gregory's Church from Mrs. Loren Le Fevre, a parishioner of Ascension Church. "I hope it will be heard all the way from here (St. Gregory's) to Woodstock," remarked Father Swezy.

Visitors to the new church will find construction going apace. Two rear rooms to serve as Sunday school space as well as other purposes are now clearly outlined and wide casement windows for these rooms are ready to be placed. The rich quality of the extremely high laminated beams and the deep, muted tones of the native blue-stone wall behind the altar promises an interior of lofty beauty and dignity.

John Victor, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Basil, was baptized at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Sunday, July 15, following the morning service. The parents are now permanent Woodstock residents.

This baptism is the ninth that has been performed in the corner church by the Rev. Herald C. Swezy, vicar, since it became a place of worship in 1952.

Nixon Still . . .

ty to President Eisenhower" he would work to replace Nixon on the GOP ticket this fall with Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

Stassen said private polls had shown that an Eisenhower-Herter ticket would be 6 per cent stronger than an Eisenhower-Nixon combination. The added strength, he said, might mean the difference between Republican and Democratic control of Congress.

Eisenhower chatted momentarily with Nixon before climbing into a limousine for the trip to the White House. Photographers demanded another handshake and the two complied, although Nixon protested mildly that "he's had enough of these, I think."

And, in a solicitous tone, Nixon said he had noted how Eisenhower had had a busy time in Panama, including several hours of listening to speeches at the meeting of American presidents. Nixon offered this word of advice to the President.

"Take a little time off now," Eisenhower himself went quickly to work, reaching his office by 8:58 a. m.

His first callers were defense mobilization director Arthur S. Flemming and civil defense administrator Val Peterson.

Flemming and Peterson are directing the civil defense exercise operation alert. They gave Eisenhower a preliminary report on it today and will report more fully after the operation is wound up tomorrow.

If Eisenhower was doing anything active about the vice presidential flurry there was no outward sign of it.

At a late morning news conference James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, was asked if he still was standing by his statement at Gettysburg, Pa., a little more than a week ago that he had no doubt whatever the ticket would be Eisenhower and Nixon.

"I haven't taken anything back, Hagerty replied. Hagerty after checking with Eisenhower in Panama yesterday, issued this statement:

"Mr. Stassen did inform the President on Friday of his decision to make such a statement and also to inform the vice president of it before issuing it."

"The President pointed out to Mr. Stassen that while he had every right as an individual to make any statement he so desired, it was also equally obvious that he could not make such a statement as a member of the President's official family."

Stassen emphasized at his news conference that he was speaking for himself. But whether he would continue as a member of the President's official family remained for Eisenhower to decide. Stassen said he did not consider himself a "renegade" from the team.

The tone of this presidentially authorized blast was interpreted here as a sign that Eisenhower is sticking by his public statement that he will be happy to have Nixon on the ticket and that he is "delighted" the vice president wants to run again.

Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) said he regards Stassen's move as dead. "In Ohio, we're committed to President Eisenhower and Richard Nixon," Bender said. "I don't think Stassen's proposal amounted to a flurry in the first place."

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) said in a separate interview he can't believe that Stassen was "serious in the first place."

Lacked Registration

Daniel David Van Dyke, 44, of Newburgh, driving a truck, was arrested by Officer Floyd Krom on Wall street at 11:26 a. m., today on charges of failing to show a certificate of registration, and operating the vehicle with a license plate not considered readable. He left $20 bail for appearance in City Court tomorrow.

SIMILAR TESTIMONY has been given by representatives of the Dairyman's League at earlier sessions of the hearings. The League was one of the first advocates of the proposal to expand the marketing order—which sets minimum farm prices for milk—to the upstate cities and counties where there is heavy consumption of milk.

Following tomorrow's session here, the hearing moves to Syracuse on Thursday.

future is being voiced in various non-political quarters. New measures to aid the farmer, in addition to those recently taken, are recommended by Henry Heimann, authority on farm economics and vice-president of the National Association of Credit Men. They include the finding of means to distribute our food surpluses where they are needed, a study of the fixed realty tax charges on farming, the bringing of food processing nearer the farm, and the production of modern farm machinery designed for small-farm operation.

Alcatraz Prisoner Found Behind Rock

San Francisco, July 24 (AP)—Another attempt to escape from grim Alcatraz federal prison ended early today like the others—in failure—when murderer Floyd Wilson was found crouched behind a rock barely 150 yards from the spot where he disappeared.

Wilson, serving a life term on the famed rock, surrendered meekly 11½ hours after he slipped away while working on the prison dock.

His capture ended an intensive foot-by-foot search by FBI agents and prison guards.

Reckless Driving Case Adjourned

The case of Walter Williams, 56, of Lake Katrine, who was arrested Saturday on a charge of reckless driving, has been postponed until August 7 by Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt of the town of Ulster.

Mr. Williams was arrested by Kingston state police following a two-car collision on Route 9W about three-quarters of a mile north of Route 209.

Troopers said the arrest was on complaint of James Overbaugh, 18, also of Lake Katrine, who told troopers he was traveling north when the Williams car backed across the road from the west side into the northbound lane without lights. He said he applied brakes and skidded on wet pavement into the Williams car.

Attorney Louis DiDonna appeared for the defendant. Hearing was before Judge Macholdt on Monday.

Doctor in Israel For Medical Study

Dr. Elmer Hess, immediate past president of the American Medical Association, has flown to Israel for a study of medical institutions, it was reported today by Mrs. Kayla Kapen, president of the local chapter of Hadassah.

The three-week-long tour is sponsored by Hadassah, an organization of Jewish women in America promoting medical and education facilities in Palestine.

Proceeds of the local Hadassah Donor Dinner held last month has been earmarked for hospitals and medical education in Israel.

Salk Shots Returned

Washington, July 24 (AP)—The Public Health Service announced today that 17 states have turned back part of previously allocated supplies of Salk polio vaccine. In addition, seven of the 17 waived their right to share in a new release today of 3,137,922 doses. The service said this enabled "states where demand is still high to receive larger amounts." Public Health Service officials said the states gave no specific reasons for turning back or waiving the vaccine allotment. Apparently in these states supply had caught up with demand, at least for the time being, they said.

Driver Fined $100

John Wesley Shaw, 29, of Kerhonkson, who was arrested Sunday night on a charge of drunk driving, was fined $100 Monday by Justice of the Peace Abram Smith of Kerhonkson. Mr. Shaw was arrested at 10 p. m. Sunday on Route 209 a half mile south of Accord by Ellenville state police.

Savor Sweet Cherry Season Year-Around in Form of Jam

SHORT, but sweet—that's the way to describe the sweet cherry season. Capture its flavor in jam for year-around enjoyment.

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor

From the states of Washington and Oregon come most of the sweet cherries enjoyed by hungry summertime eaters. Eaten out of hand at breakfast, lunch and dinner, they delight most people during their short season.

However, to prolong their season, you may want to turn some into wonderful cherry jam. The following easy, tested recipe will do the trick.

Sweet Cherry Jam (About 11 medium glasses, 3½ pounds jam)
Three and three-quarters cups prepared fruit (about 3 pounds ripe cherries), ¼ cup lemon juice (2 lemons), 7 cups (3 pounds) sugar, 1 bottle liquid fruit pectin.

First, prepare the fruit: Stem and pit about 3 pounds fully ripe sweet cherries. Chop fine. Measure ¾ cups into a VERY LARGE saucepan. Squeeze the Oakley, Brookside road, New Paltz, receives instruction on the new psychophysical testing equipment recently presented to the State University Teachers College at New Paltz by the Allstate Insurance Company. Philip Lawther, (center), sectional representative of the Allstate Foundation, watches while Dr. Loren D. Campbell, director of driver education at the college, explains the operation. The new equipment will first be used for the 1956 driver education workshop which will be held at New Paltz August 13-24.

Driver Evaluator Provides Series Of Eye Tests

Two new driver education testing devices have been presented to the State University Teachers College at New Paltz by the Allstate Insurance Company, it was announced this week by Dr. Loren D. Campbell, director of driver education at the college.

The equipment presented to the college contains a driver evaluator that provides a series of eye tests such as visual acuity and depth perception. A brake reaction timer is also included in the equipment.

Philip Lawther, sectional representative of the Allstate Foundation came to New Paltz to make the presentation. The company also recently awarded a grant-in-aid scholarship fund of $2,000 to the college for the 1956 driver education workshop to be conducted at New Paltz, August 13-24.

A basic course for teacher preparation, the workshop is sponsored by the college in cooperation with the American Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of New York. The two-credit graduate courses includes 60 hours in class, laboratory and road practice during the 10-day period.

The Allstate Foundation's representative discussed his company's interest in driver education and pointed out that high school students who take a course in driver education are seldom arrested for driving violations and a comparatively small percentage are involved in automobile accidents.

Telegraph Firm Has Big Plans For Conventions

Telegraph facilities unprecedented in size, duplicated in both Chicago and San Francisco, are being installed to transmit news of the presidential nominating conventions to the nation and the world, it was reported today by Joseph Vidal, manager of the local Western Union office.

Western Union is making more elaborate preparations than ever because the 1956 conventions are being held in different cities and one immediately follows the other, Mr. Vidal explained.

Four special telegraph operating rooms are being installed, two in Chicago and two in San Francisco, for the Democratic convention opening August 13 and the Republican on August 20.

The convention facilities in each city will be prepared to flash 600,000 words of news an hour from the presidential nominating convention. Each installation is big enough to meet the communications needs of a large city.

The largest telegraph force ever assigned to political conventions in the 105 years Western Union has handled such events will be at Chicago and San Francisco. Four hundred of the world's most experienced telegraph people, specially trained in convention work, will work exclusively on the handling of the press in the two cities.

Mr. Vidal pointed out that the 1956 conventions may well rival the record-breaking volume of 19,664,472 words of news from the 1952 conventions.

Western Union's logistics problem is complicated by such unrelated matters as the All-Star football game at Chicago Friday night, Aug. 10, three days before the Democratic convention. To solve this, Western Union is sending 25 additional operators from southern and southwestern cities to Chicago for the one night. These operators will then leave Chicago in a special railroad car for San Francisco to work at the Republican convention.

A total of 4,500 newspaper reporters, radio and TV commentators, photographers and technicians, as well as delegates, alternates, candidate's staffs and many others, will require telegraph service.

If a do-it-yourself fan tried to make a lead pencil from the basic raw materials it would cost him about $50.

9th Annual Ulster Hose Fair Is Scheduled for August 8-11

The famed Port Ewen Drum Corps will make two appearances during the ninth annual Ulster Hose No. 5 Fair in August, it was definitely assured Monday night during a meeting of the firemen.

The fair and carnival is scheduled Thursday, Aug. 8 through Saturday night, Aug. 11, on the grounds of Ulster Hose Company, Albany avenue extension.

MEMBERS of the Port Ewen Drum Corps, regarded as one of the finest musical and marching units of the state, will appear at the fair two nights, Aug. 8 and 9.

Robert Metscher, chairman, who made the announcement last night, said "we're very happy to have the Port Ewen musicians back with us this year. They have entertained for us in the past and their presence this year will enable us to stage another terrific four-day program."

Chairman Metscher also pointed out that plans have been made for the usual kiddie rides and several booths of attractions. Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Ulster Hose will be in charge of refreshments.

Members of the company will meet during the week to begin preparations on getting the booths in order.

ULSTER HOSE firemen also are making plans for participation in the annual Ulster County Volunteer firemen's parade on Saturday in New Paltz. Firemen are requested to be at the firehouse Saturday at 3:15 p. m. A bus will be available for transportation to New Paltz. The parade is due to start at 5 p. m. Ulster Hose firemen and the Auxiliary will meet in front of New Paltz High School, North Manheim Boulevard, and will lead the second division. Members are requested to be in full uniform, including black shoes. Chairman Joseph Senor reports.

Saturday night movies are being held every week at the firehouse under the youth program in the fire district.

It was announced last night that plans are in progress for a softball exhibition game between Ulster Hose and Wicks Engine and Truck Company of Kingston. Members of the refreshment committee for August are Chief Harry Lowe, Richard Lowe, Al Mason and James McAndrew.

Predicts 82,000,000 Cars on Road in 1966

By 1966 approximately 82,000,000 motor vehicles will jam the streets and highways—20,000,000 more than are on the road now according to a prediction by the National Safety Council in the July issue of Roads published by New York Goods Roads Association.

They will be piloted at various times by 90,000,000 drivers and will travel about 825 billion miles a year, the council estimated.

The traffic toll that year will be around 53,000—unless "some genius manages to pull down the prevailing death rate by getting to those 90,000,000 drivers with a safety sales talk that is more convincing than anything thought up so far," the council said.
